Reviews

“Here’s a pink wine that should appeal to both sexes at the barbecue. With the fresh, raspberry fruitiness a rosé must have, there’s also a steely backbone to it that could see it cope with a charred chop. It is another rare Australian rosé that doesn’t try to charm with sugar sweetness” Greg Duncan Powell, Sydney Morning Herald - 6-7 January, 2007

“A vivacious and cheeky light red from a small Langhorne Creek producer. It’s chockers with fresh raspberries and maraschino cherries with a dry savoury palate making it a superb summer food wine.” Kylie Fleming, Uncorked - Jan 2007

“A vivacious & cheeky light red....a superb summer food wine”
